ZONE 9 BLOGGER HELD FOR CRITICISING GOVERNMENT

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

A state of emergency was declared in Ethiopia on 9 October after week-long protests took place in several locations in the Oromia and Amhara regions. The protests ensued after at least 55 people were killed in a stampede at the Irrecha ceremony in Bishoftu in Oromia region, which protesters believe was caused by security forces. Prior to the state of emergency, a 'week of rage' was declared against the security forces. Protesters burnt businesses, vehicles and properties across Oromia region.

Befeqadu Hailu together with the other Zone 9 bloggers Abel Wabella, Natnail Feleke, Atnaf Birhane and Soliyana Shimelis (who is being tried in absentia) will appear at the Federal Supreme Court on Tuesday, 15 November for the fifth time. The Federal High Court acquitted from the five Zone 9 blogger of terrorism related charges in October 2015. However, the prosecutor has filed an appeal against their acquittal.
