One student and several journalists have been arrested and given heavy sentences in what appears to be an attempt to silence political opposition. AI is particularly concerned about the increase in prosecutions of journalists who have criticized the passing of power after the death of former President Houphouet-Boigny or the policies of the new President. Since the beginning of 1994 many students of the organization Federation estudiantine et scolaire de Cote d'Ivoire (FESCI) have been arrested, and one, Eugene Gonthy, sentenced to prison.Keywords: BANNING1 / CENSORSHIP1 / JOURNALISTS1 / STUDENTS1 / ARBITRARY ARREST / PRISONERS OF CONSCIENCE / TRIALS /KENYA*AI Index: AFR 32/12/94Pages: 3Date: 27 July 1994Title: Kenya: The imprisonment of two prisoners of conscience - Bedan Mbugua and David MakaliAbstract: Bedan Mbugua, chief editor of The People, and David Makali, a reporter on the same opposition newspaper, were imprisoned on 12 June 1994 for contempt of court. Their conviction followed the publication of an article critical of the Kenyan judiciary. They are serving sentences of between four and five months in Manyani prison, where conditions are particularly harsh. This is the latest case in a pattern of harassment and intimidation of government critics in Kenya. AI is concerned that these actions by the Kenyan authorities seriously undermine the right to freedom of expression in Kenya.Keywords: CENSORSHIP1 / JOURNALISTS1 / PRISONERS OF CONSCIENCE1 / EDITORS / INDEPENDENCE OF JUDICIARY / PRISON CONDITIONS /

TOGOAI Index: AFR 57/02/94Pages: 16Date: 15 September 1994Title:Togo: A new era for human rights?

Abstract:The installation of a new government in May 1994 in Togo raised hopes that respect for human rights in Togo would improve. It was hoped that the new government would investigate past violations by the security forces. So far, however, this has not happened. This report looks at allegations of violations by the security forces during the election period, including deaths in custody of opposition supporters, extrajudicial executions by soldiers in January 1994; the killing of MP Gaston Aziaduo Edeh and two other political activists; "disappearances" in Adetikope; and the detention and torture of Akuete Kodjo, an opposition activist. It also examines cases of political prisoners, including: Corporal Nikabou Bikagni; military detainees held since March 1993; Kokou Okessou Mbooura; members of the UFC; and Martin Dossou Gbenouga.

UGANDAAI Index: AFR 59/03/94Pages: 10Date: 8 August 1994Title:Uganda: Recommendations for safeguarding human rights in the new constitution

Abstract:This report describes some of AI's concerns about the human rights provisions of the Ugandan draft Constitution, presented to President Museveni on 31 December 1992. As it stands, the draft Constitution fails in several important respects to incorporate human rights safeguards: for example, through aspects of its provisions for states of emergency; through its retention of the death penalty; and through its failure to specify that the behaviour of law enforcement officials will conform to the highest professional standards. AI hopes that this report will be widely discussed in Uganda and that its recommendations will be taken into consideration when delegates meet to debate the final text of the Constitution.

BRAZILAI Index: AMR 19/15/94Pages: 21Date: 14 September 1994Title: Brazil: Beyond despair: an agenda for human rights in Brazil

Abstract: In the 10 years since returning to civilian rule, serious human rights violations have persisted in Brazil. Incidents such as the massacre of 111 prisoners in Sao Paulo in 1992 and the killing of seven children in the centre of Rio de Janeiro in 1993 have shocked public opinion at home and damaged Brazil's reputation abroad. Increasing social violence and the country's enormous socio-economic problems are often used to support the argument that human rights abuse is inevitable. However, AI is convinced that, on the contrary, the authorities could make significant improvements to human rights in Brazil, given the necessary political will. This report focuses on extrajudicial killings by police, "death squads" and by mob lynching. The killing of street children and adolescents is discussed. Other concerns discussed include torture and poor prison conditions.

Title: Brazil: Beyond despair: An agenda for human rights in Brazil: section level action: appeals cases circular Abstract: This document consists of 10 appeal cases, each highlighting a particular aspect of AI's concern about human rights violations in Brazil. The cases are: the Vigario Geral massacre; the abduction and killing of Ademir Barbosa Correia in January 1992 and the killing of Wilson Brito dos Santos on 19 November 1992; the "disappearance" of the "Mage 11" in 1990 and the killing of Edemia da Silva Euzebio in 1993; the killings of three children in Bras da Pina, Rio de Janeiro in June 1994; the lynching of three robbers in Matupa, Mato Grosso and Olaria, Rio de Janeiro; the Candelaria massacre, July 1993; the death of Edson de Almeida after he had reportedly been ill-treated by military police and FEBEM staff members in March 1994; the findings of the Bar Association of Brazil concerning torture in police stations in Fortaleza, Ceara; the death, allegedly following torture, of Luiz Alexandre da Silva in Itapevi, 22 April 1994 and of Jose Pereira de Araujo in April 1991; the alleged sexual assault and torture by police of Miriam Peres Medeiros, July 1991.

GUATEMALAAI Index: AMR 34/31/94Pages: 13Date: 1 July 1994Title:Guatemala: Extrajudicial executions persist under government of former Human Rights ProcuratorAbstract:The accession to office in 1993 of President de Leon, a former Human Rights Procurator, gave rise to hopes both in Guatemala and abroad that human rights in that country would improve. However, President de Leon has failed to put into practice the experience he gained as Human Rights Procurator and violations continue to be reported. This paper focuses on a number of the extrajudicial executions which have occurred since President de Leon came to office. The government's failure aggressively to pursue inquiries into these and other reported violations, combined with increasing reports of death threats and harassment, suggest that the government's performance in the area of human rights protection continues to warrant close monitoring.Keywords:EXTRAJUDICIAL EXECUTION1 / HARASSMENT1 / IMPUNITY1 / CIVIL DEFENCE / COMMUNITY WORKERS / FAMILIES / FARMERS / GOVERNMENT CHANGE / HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVISTS / INVESTIGATION OF ABUSES / JOURNALISTS / JUDGES / JUVENILES / PARAMILITARIES / POLITICIANS / PREGNANCY / PUBLISHERS / RELIGIOUS WORKERS - CATHOLIC / TORTURE/ILL-TREATMENT / TRADE UNIONISTS / WOMEN /

HAITIAI Index: AMR 36/33/94Pages: 25Date: 24 August 1994Title:Haiti: On the horns of a dilemma: military repression or foreign invasion?

Abstract:This report examines the background to the current human rights crisis in Haiti. It highlights the plight of a people who face brutal repression at home, danger and rejection when they flee abroad and the prospect of an armed invasion by foreign forces with all the potential for abuse which that could bring. It describes abuses which have been reported recently from Haiti, including political killings, "disappearances", torture, unlawful arrests, intimidation and harassment, extortion, corruption, destruction of property and abuses against women and children. Also described are abuses which occurred after the expulsion of the UN /OAS Observer Mission and the situation of Haitian asylum seekers. The report ends with a review of AI's recommendations for the protection of human rights in Haiti.

Abstract:In the six months since the government of President Reina took office in January 1994, AI has received several reports of minors being subjected to arbitrary arrest, sexual abuse or ill-treatment by members of the security forces. This paper describes two such cases. Martha Maria Saire, 11, a former street child now resident in a Juvenile Guidance Centre, was reportedly abducted and raped by two members of the military assigned to guard the centre. Mario Rene Enamorado Lara, 16, who lives in a Casa Alianza transition home, was arrested without warrant and reportedly beaten by police in Tegucigalpa.

BHUTANAI Index: ASA 14/04/94Pages: 17Date: 1 August 1994Title: Bhutan: forcible exile

Abstract: Approximately 86000 people, mostly Nepali-speakers from southern Bhutan, were resident in refugee camps in Nepal by mid-1994. AI believes that many of them have been forced out of Bhutan as a result of measures taken by the Bhutanese authorities and have, in effect, been forced out on account of their ethnic origin or political beliefs. This report describes cases which illustrate different aspects of forcible exile, namely exile as a consequence of the census operation; exile as a form of collective punishment; and "voluntary" migration. Also discussed is the "four-fold classification" of refugees agreed by the two governments in 1993.

Title: People's Republic of China: Update on dissidents detained in Beijing and Shanghai since March 1994

Abstract: Three more dissidents have reportedly been detained for their pro-democracy and labour-rights activities. They are: Liu Nianchun, Liu Huanwen, and Zhu Fuming. Nothing has been heard of them since their detention. Among those still in detention are Bao Ge, Li Guotao, Dai Xuezhong, Yang Zhou, Wang Fuchen and Yang Qingheng. Lin Muchen was released on 24 June 1994. Wang Zhongqiu and Zhang Lin are believed still to be in prison; Jiang Qisheng was released on 11 July. Xiao Biguang is reported still to be detained for "shelter and investigation". The only dissidents whose detention has been confirmed by the Chinese authorities are: Yuan Hongbing, Zhou Guoqiang, Wei Jingsheng and Tong Yi.

Title: India: Summary of Amnesty International's memorandum to the Government of India, arising from an Amnesty International visit to India, 5-15 January 1994

Abstract: This document summarizes a 42-page memorandum which AI sent to the Government of India on 19 May 1994 and subsequently published on 16 August (ASA 20/20/94). The memorandum followed an AI visit to Bombay, Maharashtra, AI's first research visit to an Indian state in 15 years. AI's concerns, as expressed in its memorandum, included: unrecorded police detentions, detention of people as "hostages" to force the surrender of wanted suspects; torture; prolonged incommunicado detention under anti-terrorist legislation; and alleged police killings in the December 1992/January 1993 riots in Bombay. AI's recommendations to the government, arising from this visit, are summarized.

Title:India: Response to the comments provided by the Government of India to Amnesty International's memorandum

Abstract:While welcoming the government's response to its memorandum, based on a visit to Bombay in January 1994 (ASA 20/20/94), AI is disappointed that the government appears to show little intention to take the effective structural measures recommended by AI to resolve India's key problems in the area of human rights. This paper provides further information about specific comments which the Government of India has made on the following concerns raised in AI's memorandum: the practice of unrecorded detentions; evidence of "hostage arrests; beatings and other torture in police custody; denial of access to lawyers; denial of access to relatives; prolonged police remand; the detention of suspects under TADA legislation; lack of legal safeguards during interrogation; lack of accountability of police officers; the conduct of the police during the December 1992 /January 1993 riots; misuse of TADA; and deaths in police custody.

Title:Indonesia /East Timor: Who is to blame? Statement before the UN Special Committee on Decolonization - July 1994

Abstract:This oral statement on human rights in East Timor was delivered by AI to the UN Special Committee on Decolonization on 13 July 1994. It provides detailed evidence of human rights violations committed in the last year and examines continued restrictions on access to East Timor by international human rights organizations. Among the concerns highlighted are: torture and ill-treatment (with several individual case studies); political imprisonment and unfair trials; extrajudicial execution; "disappearances"; and impunity of perpetrators of violations. The appendices include a list of tried political prisoners from East Timor; a list of those allegedly extrajudicially executed by government forces; and a list of reported killings by opposition groups in East Timor. Also appended is a "Short report on the condition and situation of political prisoners", sent to AI by a confidential source in East Timor.

Title: Indonesia /East Timor: Protestors beaten, detained, "disappeared"

Abstract: Despite government assurances that the situation in East Timor is normal and that human rights problems have been resolved, tension between Indonesian security forces and the East Timorese have intensified recently. Anybody who expresses criticism of Indonesian rule in East Timor risks human rights abuse and monitoring and investigation by outside human rights agencies, including the UN, continues to be subject to heavy restrictions by the military. Those who approach UN representatives or other foreign delegates risk arbitrary arrest and possible torture. The Indonesian government has also, in recent months, exerted pressure on other southeast Asian countries to forbid conferences at which human rights in East Timor will be discussed. Appended to this document are three lists giving the names of those detained during or after 14 July demonstration at the University of East Timor; those "disappeared" during or after the same demonstration; and those arrested, possibly "disappeared", on 10 July 1994 in connection with visit by UN Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, arbitrary and summary execution.

Title: South Korea: Professors targeted in latest National Security Law crackdown

Abstract: Nine professors from Kyongsang University in Chinju city face prosecution and imprisonment under national security legislation for writing a textbook which the authorities allege to be pro-North Korea. The nine are: Chang Sang-hwan, Cho Tae-ryong, Paek Choi-hum, Lee Hyu-suk, Lee Chang-ho, Song Ki-ho, Kim Chun-hyong, Kim Ui-dong and Chong Chin-sang. The book, "Understanding Korean Society", has been used as a university textbook since 1990. AI believes that they are the latest victims in a crackdown on people expressing leftist or progressive views since the death in July 1994 of North Korean leader Kim Il Sung. If imprisoned, AI will regard them as prisoners of conscience.

This report highlights incidents of political killing and "disappearance" committed in Sri Lanka since 1983. Each of the cases illustrates different aspects of AI's concern about the lack of proper investigation and prosecution. In many cases, some form of investigation or prosecution has taken place but with very unsatisfactory outcomes. Title:Denmark: Police ill-treatment

Abstract:AI is concerned about a disturbing pattern of police ill-treatment of those in their custody. This pattern has emerged in two areas of policing: the first has been during demonstrations, particularly those which have become violent; and the second was during a 15-month police operation in 1992/1993 against hashish dealing in Christiania, a community in Copenhagen. This report deals with allegations of police ill-treatment in both of these contexts. The following case histories are included: Christian Poul Andersen; Brian Sorensen, Reinholdt Bjarne Johan Knudsen, Uvdlorianguaq Geisler, Brian Beyer Johnsen, Albert Hatchwell Nielsen, Peter Lucassen, Mads Sjolund, Bent Luchow Poulsen; Benjanmin Christian Schou (now in a persistent vegetative state); "Mrs Andersen" and Berit Fagergard.

However, he is a relative of Vedat Aydin, the former president of the People's Labour Party in Diyarbakir, who was

Title: Yugoslavia: Police violence in Kosovo Province - the victims

Abstract: AI is extremely concerned about the dangerous escalation in human rights violations perpetrated by police against ethnic Albanians in the predominantly Albanian-populated province of Kosovo. In late July and early August, three ethnic Albanians were shot dead by police and another wounded. Two other ethnic Albanians were shot dead near the border with Albania by army officers. In at least two cases, one of them involving the death of a six-year-old boy, the police officers in question do not appear to have been under attack. Many incidents of abuse of detainees are reported: brutal beatings, kicking and punching are the most commonly reported forms of torture but electric shocks have apparently been used on occasion. Fourteen cases illustrative of the abuses discussed are appended to the report.
