

URGENT ACTION

DEFENDER REMAINS DETAINED, TWO RELEASED

Javier Tarazona, Director of local NGO FundaREDES, remains detained by the Bolivarian National Intelligence Service (SEBIN), while Rafael Tarazona and Omar de Dios García, FundaREDES' activists, were conditionally released on 26 October. All three were arbitrarily detained on 2 July 2021 after attempting to report harassment from security officers at the Attorney General's Office in the city of Coro (Western Venezuela), and charged with inciting hatred, treason and terrorism. Despite numerous requests, their trusted legal representatives have been denied accreditation before the court. We urge authorities to release Javier Tarazona immediately, and unconditionally close the case against all three defenders.

Dear Nicolás Maduro,

I am deeply alarmed that human rights defender and Director of FundaREDES, Javier Tarazona, remains arbitrarily detained since 2 July, whilst Rafael Tarazona and Omar de Dios García, also human rights defenders from the same organization, have been released under arbitrary conditions, including having to report before the court every eight days and not being allowed to leave Venezuela. Javier's arbitrary detention must end immediately, and the ensuing criminal investigations against all three stopped.

FundaREDES monitor, document and report on human rights abuses committed by armed groups in Venezuela's border regions. The charges they face appear to be politically motivated since SEBIN officers arrested them without an arrest warrant, and the court charged them with terrorism, which are elements of a well-documented pattern of arbitrary detentions. In addition, they have been denied access to trusted legal representation, as well as other violations to their right to due process.

We urge you to release Javier Tarazona immediately and unconditionally, and close all criminal investigations into these three human rights defenders, and to also put an end to the harassment and criminalisation of non-governmental organisations in Venezuela.

Yours sincerely,

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

FundaREDES is a Venezuelan human rights organization that promotes and defends human rights in the bordering states of Táchira, Apure, Zulia, Falcón, Bolívar y Amazonas. Its work includes documentation and reporting of human rights violations and human rights abuses by non-state actors in these regions. More recently, they have focused on documenting the violence in Apure state, southern Venezuela, in what has been claimed to be a conflict with FARC non-demobilized groups.

According to media outlets, the human rights defenders Javier Tarazona, Rafael Tarazona and Omar de Dios García were in the city of Coro in an educational activity with Jhonny Romero, representative of the NGO Mayday Confavidt. The latter works with victims of disappearance and human trafficking in Falcón state. After the event, they went to the Attorney General's office to submit a formal report of harassment by alleged intelligence service and local police agents. Later that day, reports point out that Bolivarian National Intelligence Service's (SEBIN) agents arbitrarily detained them, without presenting an arrest warrant. Their arrest was not informed formally to their lawyers and their whereabouts remained unknown during 24 hours after their arrest, when they were brought before a Court with special jurisdiction on terrorism. Authorities released Jhonny Romero on 3 July, before the hearing.

The local NGO Foro Penal has informed that despite being their trusted defence lawyers, all three human rights defenders facing charges were assigned public defenders, although one Foro Penal member was able to see them and talk to them. Due to the lack of trusted legal representation, it's unclear why they are being investigated, but it is public that they have been charged with instigation of hatred, "terrorism" and treason. Some of these crimes are established in the "Organic Law on Organized Crime and Financing of Terrorism". The authorities in Venezuela have commonly used this law to criminalized human rights defenders and humanitarian workers, as the case of five members of Azul Positivo in January 2021. Since their arrest, Foro Penal has requested their legal representation on countless occasions, which was always denied. At a hearing on 26 October, Rafael Tarazona and Omar de Dios García were conditionally released, having to register at the court every eight days and being prohibited from leaving the country. However, FundaREDES Director Javier Tarazona remained arbitrarily detained.

Nicolás Maduro government has continually harassed, prosecuted and censored activists and civil society organizations working to protect the rights of Venezuelans amidst a humanitarian complex crisis and a deep human rights crisis that is making Venezuelans fled in unprecedented numbers in search of safety and a dignified future abroad. By June 2021, over 5.6 million had fled the country.

All these events are not isolated. Since the beginning of 2021, civil society in Venezuela has reported a new crackdown wave against human rights activists and human rights defenders, mainly focusing on criminalizing international cooperation and attempting to implement new repressive mechanisms over civil society in the country. This new set of repressive attacks have also affected independent media outlets.

Last year, a report from the UN independent international fact-finding mission on the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela documented hundreds of cases of extrajudicial executions; enforced disappearances; arbitrary detentions; and torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment committed in the country since 2014, and concluded that these grave human rights violations may amount to crimes against humanity.
