Amnesty International has just received information that the people named above are being held in incommunicado detention in military installations, and is concerned for their safety. According to reports, they were detained between the dates of 16-21 October 1990 by soldiers and taken to the Mariscal Cáceres Morales military base in Tarapoto, San Martín province, San Martín department. Reports also indicate that they are now being held incommunicado, leading to fears that they may be tortured since this is a common practice in the San Martín military barracks.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

For the last eight years Amnesty International has received numerous reports of incommunicado and unacknowledged detentions from Peru, some of which have led to "disappearances". Most of them have occurred in rural areas and have been carried out by uniformed members of the security forces, who often refuse to acknowledge the detentions. Many of those detained by the armed forces "disappear" indefinitely; others are released after days or weeks in secret custody, during which time they may be subjected to torture. Sometimes their detention is acknowledged, after prolonged secret detention and interrogation. In these cases detentions are only acknowledged to have occurred as of the date they are transferred from military to police custody, when public prosecutors are informed of them. The armed forces as a rule never acknowledge having held prisoners prior to their transfer to the police. This is a major contributing factor to the continuing practice of torture and "disappearance".

Human rights violations take place in a context of increasingly violent activities by armed opposition groups, especially "Sendero Luminoso", which has claimed responsibility for hundreds of execution-style killings of government officials, leaders of left-wing political parties and members of peasant communities believed to have cooperated with the armed forces.
RECOMMENDED ACTION: Telegrams/telexes/faxes/express and airmail letters:
- expressing concern at the reported incommunicado detention of the above people;
- asking that all the necessary measures be taken to ensure their physical safety and that they have access to lawyers, doctors and relatives;
- asking that they be either unconditionally released or charged with a recognizably criminal offence and promptly brought to court.
