INTERNATIONAL LAW AND ORGANIZATIONS
INTERNSHIP PROGRAM
January – June 2006
LONDON, GENEVA, NEW YORK

The Aim of our internship program is:

To provide work experience in an international human rights organization for individuals who intend to work within human rights in the future. Interns contribute to the work carried out by ILOP which is not solely academic in nature; all of the internships include some administrative tasks.

General information

This application is for internship period January – June 2006.
Closing date for receipt of applications is 31 August 2005.

We publicize our internship program internationally and receive applications from all over the world. Selection is made on the basis of the application form, curriculum vitae and submitted written work. The application form attached explains these criteria in detail. Candidates are not formally interviewed.

Internships run for a period of six months, full-time, and are voluntary (unpaid). Return travel costs and insurance for the duration of the internship will be paid by ILOP. In addition to this a stipend to cover local travel expenses and lunch is also provided. All other costs associated with the internship (e.g. accommodation and living expenses) are to be covered by interns.

A background in law (particularly human rights law) or international relations to a graduate level, is essential. Some knowledge of international human rights law or practice and intergovernmental organizations (IGOs) would be an advantage.

The working language of AI is English. The other official AI languages are French, Spanish and Arabic. A very good level of written and spoken English is required for interns in all locations. A fluent level of written and spoken French is also required for Geneva.

Much of our work is computerized and interns must be willing to be trained to work with the available technology.

Interns are required to comply with AI's policy and rules relating to Health and Safety, Cultural Diversity and Equal Opportunities and with its security regulations.

Please note: An ILOP internship does not lead to employment with Amnesty International.

WHAT IS THE INTERNATIONAL LAW AND ORGANIZATIONS PROGRAM?

The International Law and Organizations Program (ILOP) campaigns against human rights violations at the United Nations (UN) and other intergovernmental organizations, and provides information and advice on international law and standards, especially human rights law. ILOP leads AI's work on the UN and regional intergovernmental organizations, such as the Council of Europe (CoE), the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE), the Organization of American States (OAS) and the Organization of African Unity (OAU).

ILOP is responsible for the day-to-day relations with international organizations, both governmental and non-governmental, making submissions of AI information to intergovernmental organizations, and arranging participation in appropriate meetings. Via the permanent AI representatives in New York and Geneva, ILOP monitors international developments relevant to the work of the IS and the movement. It also mobilizes the worldwide AI membership to campaign on issues dealt with by international organizations. ILOP is structured in the following way:-

This application is for internship period January – June 2006.
Closing date for receipt of applications is 31 August 2005.

Senior Director's office: including the Senior Director, Program Director and ILOP Coordinator

Legal Advice branch: with five Legal advisers and three Assistant Advisers on International and Regional Organizations. Legal advisers give legal and political advice to the research and action teams in the Regional Programs, particularly on matters of international and national law. They are also involved in AI's thematic work at the UN, particularly the development of international law and standards; and lead AI's work on regional intergovernmental organizations. Assistant Advisers on International and Regional Organizations work principally on regional intergovernmental organizations, UN treaty bodies and thematic mechanisms and mobilizing AI membership action.

International Organizations (IO) branch: with two Advisers on International Organizations and one Assistant Adviser in London; a UN Representative and an Adviser on International Organizations at AI's UN office in Geneva and a Head of office, Representative and a Deputy Representative at AI's UN office in New York. The IO branch leads AI's work on the UN and other global organizations, looking at our country work through the perspective of such global institutions. The New York and Geneva teams monitor and lobby at the meetings of the UN and other international bodies relevant to AI's work. New York's responsibilities include the UN Security Council and General Assembly. Geneva's responsibilities include the UN Commission on Human Rights, the High Commissioner for Human Rights, the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities.

International Justice Project (IJP): staffed by a senior legal adviser, legal adviser, assistant legal adviser and an administrative assistant; the International Justice Project was established primarily to campaign against impunity. In this connection, it is campaigning for the effective functioning of the International Criminal Court (ICC), a permanent independent judicial body created by the international community of states to prosecute the gravest possible crimes under international law. This includes campaigning for universal ratification of the ICC Statute and lobbying for states parties to draft and enact legislation to implement the Statute. The IJP also works on other internationalized courts, such as the Special Court for Sierra Leone, campaigns for the enactment and implementation of effective universal jurisdiction legislation over war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide and torture, and campaigns to strengthen national justice systems.

Desirable skills for interns in the IJP are a good knowledge of human rights and humanitarian law, familiarity with criminal law and procedure and a good reading knowledge of French and Spanish.

In addition to core staff, ILOP has three interns in London and one each in New York and Geneva, as well as other volunteer helpers.

LONDON INTERNSHIPS

We offer three six-month internships twice a year at the International Secretariat in London - recruiting a total of six interns per year.

Each intern will work exclusively for the six-months with either the Legal Advice branch, the International Organizations branch or with the International Justice Project.

Interns are an integral part of the branch in which they are working and ILOP as a whole. They contribute actively to their teams and to wider program issues and activities. The work is a mixture of short and long-term projects (There is a variety of research and writing opportunities on substantive human rights issues; for example, AI's campaigning work on the development of international standards) as well as day-to-day issues and tasks some of these being administrative in nature. Interns do their own administrative work and assist their teams with general office tasks.

Interns are often engaged in synthesizing AI country information into thematic papers for submission to the UN or other international organizations. Preparation of these papers brings the interns into contact with country research and action teams in the Regional Programs.

Project work is supervised but interns are expected to be able to work independently, use their initiative and manage their own workload.

Interns are responsible for arranging their own UK visa/work permit before arriving in the UK. AI can provide a supporting letter on request.

GENEVA AND NEW YORK INTERNSHIPS

We offer two internships per year at each of AI's two UN offices, in Geneva and New York - recruiting a total of four interns a year for these locations.

Interns work alongside Amnesty International's Head of Office, UN Representative and Deputy-representative as an integral part of the team, participating in lobbying efforts, monitoring UN meetings, as well as liaising with London and AI Sections worldwide.

Visas/work permits: For Geneva, a work permit can be obtained on condition that the intern lives in the canton of Geneva; we can help obtain this, as long as interns can provide written proof to Swiss authorities that they have sufficient means to live in Geneva.

For New York, applicants must already be allowed to work in the United States or obtain the correct visa themselves; we cannot help obtain this except to provide a formal letter confirming and providing details of the internship.

Working hours in New York are normally 0900-1700h or 1000-1800h, with some flexibility during the General Assembly (September-December each year). In Geneva, hours are normally 1000-1800h, with some flexibility during the Commission on Human Rights (in March/April each year).
