IRAN: Political executions

Amnesty International condemns the political executions carried out in Iran during the last month, which are reportedly still continuing. It is concerned by the continuing ban on family visits to political prisoners in Evin Prison in Tehran and elsewhere which has fuelled speculation that hundreds of political prisoners may have been executed. The executions have reportedly been carried out predominantly on members and supporters of the People's Mojahedin Organization of Iran (PMOI), but about 20 supporters of other political opposition groups are also reported to have been executed. Amnesty International does not have sufficient information to estimate the number of political executions, but it is deeply concerned by the apparent escalation.

Following the incursion by the PMOI-led National Liberation Army into Iran between 25 and 28 July 1988, small groups of alleged collaborators with and members of the PMOI were publicly executed in Kangan, Bakhtaran and Islamabad-e Gharb. The Iranian National News Agency said that 15 PMOI supporters had been executed by 5 August, and pictures of public hangings appeared in the Iranian national press.

In a speech at Friday prayers in Tehran on 5 August Ayatollah Ardebili, the Chief Justice, hinted that many imprisoned PMOI supporters were at risk of execution when he said,

"The judiciary is under very strong pressure from public opinion asking why we even put them [the PMOI] on trial, why some of them are jailed, and why all are not executed ... The people say they should all be executed without exception."

Amnesty International opposes the death penalty in all cases as a violation of the right to life and the right not to be subjected to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, as proclaimed in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. In the case of Iran it is particularly concerned by the lack of provisions for fair trial in political cases, and the lack of any procedure for prisoners sentenced to death to appeal against conviction or sentence.
RECOMMENDED ACTION: Telegrams/telexes/airmail letters:
- calling for an immediate end to these political executions;
- expressing deep regret at the executions which have taken place, and asking for details of the procedures by which the sentences were passed and approved;
- urging the commutation of all outstanding death sentences and an end to executions in Iran.

- Please take action as soon as you receive this Urgent Action appeal. Carefully read the recommended action. If possible, send a telegram or express letter immediately to one or more of the addresses given. Other letters can be sent afterwards.

- Telegrams and letters should be brief and courteous. Stress that your concern for human rights is not in any way politically partisan. Refer to relevant provisions in international law, such as the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights:
  - Article 3 — “Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person.”
  - Article 5 — “No one shall be subjected to torture or to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.”
  - Article 9 — “No one shall be subjected to arbitrary arrest, detention or exile.”

- The name of Amnesty International may be used, although letters written in a private or personal capacity may be more effective.

- Copies of appeals should be sent to relevant diplomatic representatives in your country.

- In Urgent Action cases, Amnesty International has to act rapidly to prevent the ill-treatment of prisoners. An appeal is issued when Amnesty International believes it has received reliable and accurate information in such cases. It is not always possible to verify all details independently and in some instances the situation outlined in the appeal may change. Urgent Action participants are always notified of any significant new facts.

- Copies of any replies received from government authorities should be sent immediately to your section’s Urgent Action coordinator or direct to the Campaign and Membership Department of the International Secretariat. If appropriate, thank the official who has replied and ask to be kept informed about the case.
