KNOW YOUR RIGHTS!

You should not be evicted from your home unless certain rules and procedures are followed. This is your right, no matter who owns the house or land where you live.

BEFORE ANY EVICTION, YOU ARE ENTITLED TO:

- written notice and full information
- a genuine process of consultation
- challenge the eviction
- compensation
- alternative accommodation for those who cannot provide for themselves
- time to collect your possessions and building materials.

EVICTIONS MUST NOT:

- make you homeless
- happen at night or in bad weather

Evictions must be carried out safely, in the presence of state officials, without unnecessary or unreasonable force.

WHOEVER YOU ARE, WHEREVER YOU LIVE HOUSING IS YOUR HUMAN RIGHT!
