Fear for

KENYA International Federation of Women's Lawyers - Kenya Branch

The Kenyan branch of the International Federation of Women Lawyers (FIDA) which had been helping an alleged rape victim bring charges against a Minister of State in the Office of the President, has faced an attempted break-in by police. They have also received anonymous death threats. These followed the killing of a priest who was a witness in this case and Amnesty International fears that the lawyers may also be in grave danger.

One of the people instrumental in bringing this case to public attention, Father John Kaiser, a Catholic priest and an outspoken advocate for human rights in Kenya, was murdered on 24 August. Amnesty International believes that his killing may have been politically motivated and has sought assurances that the investigation into his death is thorough, independent and impartial. Since Father Kaiser's death the girl allegedly raped by the Minister of State has dropped the charges against him.

The day after Father Kaiser was murdered, five armed police officers tried to force their way into the FIDA office in Nairobi, but were kept out by the security guards at the gates.

Over the last two weeks three FIDA staff have received anonymous calls from someone who threatens to kill them because of their work.

This attempt at forced entry is part of a pattern of arrests, harassment and intimidation of human rights organizations by the Kenyan authorities. Amnesty International has repeatedly raised these concerns with the authorities.

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Please send telegrams/telexes/faxes/express/airmail letters in English or your own language:

- condemning the attempt by police to force their way into the FIDA offices on 25 August, and their attempt to intimidate FIDA staff;
- urging the authorities to conduct a thorough, impartial and prompt investigation into this police misconduct, and the telephone death threats received by FIDA staff, and to ensure that those responsible are brought to justice;
- seeking assurances that human rights activists in Kenya will be protected from violence, threats and intimidation.
