UA 104/04 Fear for safety/ possible "disappearance"

NEPAL Saroj Babu Kuwar (m), aged 37, Restaurateur

Saroj Babu Kuwar was reportedly arrested in Kathmandu municipality on 5 March 2004. His whereabouts are now unknown and Amnesty International is concerned that he may have "disappeared".

Saroj Babu Kuwar is originally from Prithvinarayan municipality in Gorkha district, although he now lives at Machapokhari in Balaju, Kathmandu. At 11.30am on 5 March five men in plain clothes came to his restaurant and identified themselves as security forces personnel. They took him outside, and he told witnesses that he would be returning soon. However Saroj Babu Kuwar was later seen being taken away from the area by the five security forces personnel, and no contact has been made with him since that time. Reports suggest that he is being held at Shree Jang Gan army camp inside Singha Durbar in Kathmandu. The reasons for his arrest are not known.

Attempts to locate Saroj Babu Kuwar, including informing the National Human Rights Commission, both the Home and Defence Ministries, and the Army Human Rights Cell, have so far been unsuccessful.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Amnesty International has been concerned about a deterioration in the human rights situation in Nepal since the CPN (Maoist) launched a "people's war" in February 1996. Reports of human rights abuses by both the security forces and the CPN (Maoist) escalated after the army was mobilized and a state of emergency imposed between November 2001 and August 2002. Many people were arrested under the 2002 Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Control and Punishment) Act, which gave the security forces the power to arrest without warrant and detain suspects in police custody for up to 90 days. Scores of people are reported to have been held for weeks or even months in illegal army custody without access to their families, lawyers or medical treatment. In 2002, Nepal recorded the highest number of "disappearances" of any country in the world. The CPN (Maoist) are also reported to have abducted scores of people.

On 29 January 2003, both sides agreed to a ceasefire. Three rounds of peace talks were held - in April, May and August - between the government and representatives of the CPN (Maoist). Among the CPN (Maoist)'s central demands were a round table conference, the formation of an interim government and elections to a constituent assembly to draft a new Constitution. The CPN (Maoist) announced they were withdrawing from the ceasefire agreement as of 27 August 2003. Since then, fighting has resumed throughout the country, and Amnesty International has received reports of both sides committing human rights abuses. In particular there has been a rise in the number of "disappearances" at the hands of the security forces and abductions by the CPN (Maoist).
