Title: Rwanda: Appeal cases - "No one is talking about it any more"

Abstract: These six appeal cases try to personalize some of the issues covered in the report by illustrating who are the victims of killings in Rwanda and the circumstances in which they are killed. Their aim is to raise awareness of the human rights situation in Rwanda and create publicity around AI's concerns, thus generating pressure on both the Rwandese Government and the international community to take steps towards preventing the high level of deliberate killings, to protect potential victims and to identify and bring to justice the perpetrators.

Title: Colombia: Internally displaced: Dispossessed and exiled in their own land, "Just what do we have to do to stay alive?"

Abstract: Hundreds of thousands of Colombians have been forced to flee their homes in search of safety in recent years. The causes behind this forced displacement are varied: counter-insurgency operations, guerrilla reprisals, land conflict and economic interests. The army-backed paramilitaries in particular have a deliberate strategy of "cleansing" the civilian population from areas of guerrilla influence, committing gross human rights violations with impunity. A lack of international protection and assistance leaves the internally displaced particularly vulnerable to further abuses. This report, which forms part of Amnesty International's refugee campaign, documents this policy of forcible displacement, its perpetrators, and the thousands of victims, mainly peasant farmers, indigenous peoples, women and children. It concludes with recommended actions to the Colombian government, armed opposition groups and the international community.

Title: Turkey: Student campaigners tortured and imprisoned

Abstract: In late 1995 and throughout 1996 widespread student protests took place in Turkey. Following an unrelated violent incident in Ankara on 30 March 1996, in which three petrol bombs were thrown into a street in the centre, 31 students from universities in the city were detained almost three weeks later at their homes, their university or in the street. AI concludes that the circumstances suggest that the students were targeted because of their previous peaceful campaigning and that they are prisoners of conscience. The organization is calling for their immediate and unconditional release, and for a thorough and impartial investigation into their allegations of torture and sexual assaults by police officers.
