

URGENT ACTION

ANOTHER DEFENDER DETAINED, OTHER ISOLATED

On 8 August 2025, human rights defender Martha Lía Grajales was taken by alleged police officers in Caracas, Venezuela. She is arbitrarily detained and her fate and whereabouts were unknown until 11 August. Other human rights defenders remain arbitrarily detained, including Javier Tarazona, Rocío San Miguel, Kennedy Tejada, Eduardo Torres, and Carlos Julio Rojas, who has been kept in incommunicado detention since 30 July. We call on Nicolás Maduro to immediately disclose the fate and whereabouts of all detainees, to release all arbitrarily detained individuals and protect their rights to life, physical integrity, and fair trial.

TAKE ACTION: WRITE AN APPEAL IN YOUR OWN WORDS OR USE THIS MODEL LETTER

*President of the Republic Nicolás Maduro
Palacio de Miraflores,
Av. Nte. 10, Caracas 1012,
Caracas, Venezuela*

Mr Nicolás Maduro,

We are appalled by the arbitrary detention of human rights defender Martha Lía Grajales and the fact that her fate and whereabouts were concealed from 8 August until 11 August, amounting to a short-term enforced disappearance. The charges filed against her –incitement of hatred, conspiracy with a foreign government, and criminal association- lack evidence and credibility. These are criminal offenses commonly employed to persecute and punish any form of real or perceived dissent.

Martha Grajales' arbitrary detention and enforced disappearance occurred in the midst of an inexcusable crackdown on the right to peaceful protest exercised by mothers of detained individuals and activists who support them. On 5 August, just days before Martha's detention at the hands of unidentified officers, dozens of mothers and activists -including Martha- were attacked and robbed by armed groups whilst holding a vigil at the Venezuelan Supreme Court of Justice. The way in which these brave mothers and activists were abused and revictimized is shocking and we condemn it in the strongest terms.

We remain concerned over the fate and rights of other human rights defenders also arbitrarily detained for their activism, including Javier Tarazona, detained since 2 July 2021; Rocío San Miguel, detained on 9 February 2024 and who requires urgent surgery and rehabilitation; Carlos Julio Rojas, detained since 15 April 2024; Kennedy Tejada, detained on 2 August 2024; and Eduardo Torres, detained on 9 May 2025. The current situation of Carlos Julio Rojas is of particular concern. Since 30 July, his family stopped having any contact with him, being denied phone calls, visits, and even deliveries of food and medication that are not provided by the authorities at El Helicoide, the detention centre where he is being held.

Over 800 other politically motivated arbitrary detainees and forcibly disappeared people, including nationals from Spain, Colombia, and Ukraine, amongst other nationalities, are currently being unfairly held in Venezuelan detention centres, suffering an endless list of other human rights violations and international crimes. Venezuelan authorities that commit crimes under international law and grave human rights violations should recall that they are being monitored and scrutinized by international justice and accountability mechanisms, including the UN and the International Criminal Court.

We call for the immediate and unconditional release of Martha Lía Grajales, Eduardo Torres, Javier Tarazona, Rocío San Miguel, Carlos Julio Rojas, and Kennedy Tejada, and that of all arbitrary detainees in Venezuela. We also demand that the fate and whereabouts of all forcibly disappeared persons are immediately disclosed, as well as protecting their rights to life, physical integrity, and to a fair trial.

Yours sincerely,

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Nicolás Maduro's government's long-standing policy of repression to silence any form of real or perceived dissent reached a historic peak after the 28 July 2024 election, which saw over 2,000 people arbitrarily detained for political reasons, many of them charged with seemingly unfounded counts of terrorism and incitement of hatred, including vulnerable groups such as children and people living with disabilities. According to the local organization Foro Penal, as of 5 August 2025, at least 807 people remain arbitrarily detained for political reasons, including 95 women, four teenagers, and 44 whose fate and whereabouts are reportedly unknown.

In its latest report, Detentions Without a Trace, Amnesty International profiled 15 individuals whose stories demonstrated the widespread use of enforced disappearances in Venezuela, specifically between August 2024 and June 2025. As of 11 August 2025, eight of those individuals remained forcibly disappeared, namely: Andrés Martínez (Spanish), Damián Rojas, Danner Barajas (Colombian), Eudi Andrade, Jorgen Guanares, Jose María Basoa (Spanish), Rory Branker, and Yevhenii Petrovich Trush (Ukrainian). The whereabouts of Alfredo Díaz, Dennis Lepaje, Eduardo Torres, Raymar Pérez and Rosa Chirinos have been established, but they remain arbitrarily detained.

Within this policy of repression, the government has continually harassed, prosecuted and censored activists and civil society organizations working to protect the rights of Venezuelans amidst a complex humanitarian emergency and a deep human rights crisis that is making Venezuelans flee in unprecedented numbers in search of safety and protection. By May 2025, 7.9 million had fled Venezuela.

As Amnesty International has repeatedly denounced, human rights defenders in Venezuela are at a constant risk of harassment, attacks and detention. Nicolás Maduro's government is currently pursuing several initiatives to control and silence human rights and civil society organizations. The law adopted in August 2024 titled 'Law for the audit, regularization, action and financing of non-governmental and related organizations', or so-called 'anti-NGO law', imposes strict controls that include handing over lists of members and personnel and their assets, lists of donors, and registration of financial movements. Non-compliance with registration requirements could lead to the closure of civil society organizations and possible criminal prosecutions. The bill entered into force in February 2025.

Since 2020, reports from the UN independent international fact-finding mission on the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela (FFM) have thoroughly documented hundreds of cases of extrajudicial executions; enforced disappearances; arbitrary detentions; and torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment committed in the country since 2014; as well as the ways in which the justice system serves as a tool for the government's policy of repression, concluding that some of these international crimes and human rights violations amount to crimes against humanity. Specifically in 2024, the FFM concluded that it has "reasonable grounds to believe that the crime of persecution on political grounds has been committed during the timeframe covered by its mandate".

Since November 2021, the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court is conducting a criminal investigation into the situation in Venezuela, specifically regarding the "[c]rimes against humanity of deprivation of liberty or other serious deprivation of physical liberty (...); torture (...); rape and/or other forms of sexual violence of comparable severity (...); and politically motivated persecution against persons detained (...), which were committed since at least April 2017, by members of the State security forces, civil authorities and pro-government persons (or groups called "collectives").
