Four of the people arrested on 13 June have been released without charge, but another five, named above, are now known to have been arrested that day. All are held incommunicado, reportedly in Kober prison, in the capital, Khartoum.

Alfatih Abdallah, Ghazafi Abdulmotalib, Abuobaida Awad and Abualgasim Farahana were released from Kober prison early in the morning of 20 June.

Most of the detainees are held in the political section of Kober prison. The whereabouts of Dr Mohamed Jalal Ahmed Hashim and Raafat Hassan Abbas are unknown, and they are at grave risk of torture.

Most of the journalists and lawyers were arrested at around 11pm on 13 June in the city of Dongola, capital of Northern State. They had travelled together from Khartoum, to investigate the violence and arrests which had followed protests earlier that day against the plans for the Kajbar Dam on the Nile, in the populated Mahas region.

Several members and associates of The Committee Against the Building of Kajbar Dam, a group campaigning on behalf of the communities which will be affected by the dam, were also arrested in Khartoum.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Article 31 of the 1999 National Security Forces Act gives the security forces the power to detain people for up to nine months without access to judicial review. All those detained over the protests against the Kajbar Dam are likely to be held under this legislation.

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Please send appeals to arrive as quickly as possible, in Arabic, English or your own language:

- expressing concern for the lawyers and journalists detained on the day of protests against the construction of the Kajbar Dam;
- urging the authorities to give them immediate and regular access to their families, lawyers, and any medical treatment they may require;
- urging the authorities to charge the men with recognisably criminal offences, or else release them immediately;
- urging the authorities to repeal Article 31 of the National Security Forces Act, which allows detainees to be held for up to nine months without access to judicial review.
