WEB UPDATES – TACTICAL CAMPAIGN AGAINST TORTURE
Date	29 May 2007
Section	Features
AIDOC	AFR 04/001/2007

Title
Rendition in the Horn of Africa

Summary

85 men, women and children have been unlawfully transferred from Kenya to Somalia. Almost all were then transferred to Ethiopia. The whereabouts of 40 of them – and another 27 people initially detained in Kenya - remain unknown.

Body

At least 140 men, women and children fleeing conflict in Somalia were arrested by Kenyan authorities between 30 December 2006 and February 2007 as they tried to enter Kenya.

Most detainees were held for weeks without charge and some were reportedly tortured or otherwise ill-treated. Some were allegedly beaten by the Kenyan police and forced to undress before being photographed. The detainees did not have access to their relatives or to lawyers. Some of the detainees were questioned – their interrogators included US agents. They were also denied access to the UN Refugee Agency and to asylum procedures.

What has happened to these 140 people?

- 85 were unlawfully transferred to Somalia. Four who were UK residents were sent from Somalia to the UK and released, and the remaining 81 were transferred to Ethiopia. The Ethiopian authorities only acknowledge the detention of 41 22 of whom were later released and one was brought to military court and the whereabouts of the remaining 40 detainees are unknown. Several detainees were reportedly tortured or ill-treated in detention. Those still held have no access to a lawyer or their families.
- 27 were either released in Kenya or sent back to their countries.
- Only one detainee was charged in Kenya.
- The location of the remaining 27 detainees is unknown.

Amnesty International calls on the Ethiopian, Kenyan and Somali authorities to immediately disclose the fate and whereabouts of all detainees.

Detainees must be promptly charged and tried before an ordinary court or else released. No one should be transferred to the custody of another state unless the transfer is carried out in line with international standards. No detainee should be returned to countries where they could face torture, ill-treatment or other human rights violations.

Box

Women behind bars

At least 13 out of the 85 people rendered to Ethiopia were women. Many had their children with them and some were pregnant. Two reportedly gave birth in custody in Ethiopia. Many of these women were held solely because they are family members of suspected members of al-Qa'ida or of the Council of Somali Islamic Courts.

Their detention violates the right to liberty and security of the person and the right not to be subjected to arbitrary arrest or detention.

Action link

Subscribe to our free updates

Our free updates are a great way to keep up with news and action opportunities to end abuses in the 'war on terror'.

Links to documents:

Fact-sheet: Kenya/Ethiopia/Somalia – Horn of Africa: unlawful transfers in the 'war on terror' (AFR 25/006/2007)

Images:

1.

Map of East Africa.

@ UN

https://intranet.amnesty.org/adam/en/10711/detail.html

2.

Bashir Maktal, Canadian citizen arrested in Kenya and rendered to Ethiopia in January 2007 @ Private

https://intranet.amnesty.org/adam/en/17457/detail.html