Stop Violence Against Women: Correspondents write features for news.amnesty

Over the coming weeks, news.amnesty will publish a series of feature articles to coincide with the "conflict" phase of the Stop Violence Against Women campaign. Professional journalists from around the world who have worked as correspondents in conflict situations have written articles to illustrate the impact war has on women.

The features will illustrate the material contained in Amnesty International's report, "Lives blown apart: Crimes against women in times of conflict".

The first feature, Iraq: The situation is worse than ever, published today on Human Rights Day, has been written by Nevin Sungur, a journalist with NTV in Istanbul, Turkey.

As each feature is published, it will appear on a special news.amnesty page available at <http://news.amnesty.org/topic/correspondents>
