

SARAH MARDINI AND SEÁN BINDER,
GREECE

FACING JAIL FOR SAVING LIVES

WRITE FOR RIGHTS

AMNESTY
INTERNATIONAL

In Greece, you can go to jail for saving lives. It happened to rescue workers Sarahardini, 24, and Seán Binder, 25, because they volunteered for a sea search and rescue organization in Lesbos. They helped people in danger at sea, many of whom were fleeing abuses in their countries. But they ended up in prison charged with spying, people smuggling and belonging to a criminal organization.

Tell Greece to drop all charges against Sarah and Seán.

WRITE A LETTER
CHANGE A LIFE

