Further information on UA 07/98 (AFR 17/01/98, 8 January 1998) and follow-ups (AFR 17/03/98, 15 January 1998; AFR 17/04/98, 4 March 1998; AFR 17/06/98, 15 April 1998) - Prisoner of conscience/Health concern/Cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment

CAMEROONPius Njawé, journalist, director of Le Messenger
Michel Michaut Moussala, journalist, director of Aurore Plus

There is renewed concern that Pius Njawé's health is deteriorating as a result of the harsh conditions in the Central Prison, New Bell, Douala, where he is serving a one-year prison term.

Severe overcrowding, inadequate sanitary facilities and lack of medical care in Cameroon's prisons cause disease and a high mortality rate among prisoners.

Pius Njawé was arrested on 24 December 1997 following an article published in Le Messenger two days earlier, which raised questions about President Paul Biya's health. Two days later the newspaper published a government denial that President Biya was ill, but on 26 December Pius Njawé was nevertheless charged with propagation de fausses nouvelles, dissemination of false news, and sent to New Bell prison. On 13 January 1998 he was convicted and sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a fine. The Court of Appeal in Douala reduced the fine and the prison term to one year on 14 April 1998.

Amnesty International believes that Pius Njawé has been imprisoned solely because of his legitimate professional activities, in violation of his right to freedom of expression. More than 30 court cases have been brought against Le Messenger since 1990, almost all of them by the government.

Michel Michaut Moussala was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and a fine after being convicted of diffamation, defamation, at the same trial as Pius Njawé in January 1998, but he has not yet been arrested or imprisoned.

FURTHER RECOMMENDED ACTION: Please send telegrams/faxes/express/ airmail letters in French, English or in your own language:

- repeating your call for Pius Njawé's immediate and unconditional release as a prisoner of conscience;
- expressing serious concern about the harsh conditions in which he is being held, which pose a threat to his safety and health, and urging immediate action to ensure that he is held in conditions which conform to international standards for the treatment of prisoners;
- urging, in particular, that he be allowed to receive all necessary medical treatment, including regular access to a doctor of his own choice;
- expressing concern at the continuing attacks on freedom of expression in Cameroon and urging that neither Michel Michaut Moussala nor any other journalist be imprisoned as a result of their legitimate professional activities;
- reminding the Government of its obligation to guarantee freedom of expression, including under Article 19 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which it ratified in 1984.
