

YOUR DIGNITY YOUR RIGHTS YOUR HOUSE

Amnesty International is a worldwide movement of 2.2 million people who campaign for human rights for all.

We believe that the Kenyan government must:

- provide clean water, sanitation, drainage and basic services to people living in informal settlements
- involve residents of informal settlements in decisions that affect their lives
- create guidelines that ensure that evictions conform to human rights law.

We need to remind world leaders what our dignity means to us. We need to show them how much it matters and what it is worth. Tell us what dignity means to you. Together, we will take these messages to world leaders as part of the Demand Dignity campaign.

WHAT DOES LIVING WITH DIGNITY MEAN TO YOU?

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights says that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. Yet people living in informal settlements are denied their right to adequate housing and basic services, as well as living in constant fear of forced evictions.

Send an SMS text message to support the Demand Dignity campaign and tell the Kenyan government what dignity and housing rights mean to you:

“For me, living with dignity means...”
Send your answer now to 3221

- Your SMS will be shown at www.demanddignity.org
- Amnesty International will reply asking for your name, so that this can be shown alongside your SMS
- SMS is only available on Safaricom and Zain networks. Otherwise, please show your support by visiting www.demanddignity.org and adding your message
