Amnesty International has heard that Christopher Giwa, Eric Nvundudu, Enoch Mhandhla, Servias Sibanda and Kapofu were all unconditionally released on 29 October 1990.

The five students had been arrested on 25 and 26 October 1990 after students from the University of Zimbabwe demonstrated in Harare against the University Bill, which places the university under the tight control of its Vice-Chancellor (who has executive responsibility for the running of the university) and the Minister of Education.

No further action is required on behalf of the five students. Thank you for sending appeals.
