news.amnesty: Two features to mark Universal Children's Day

The Amnesty International news website, news.amnesty, has published two features to mark Universal Children's Day, 20 November. The first, Bulgaria: Give the children of Dzhurkovo a chance to realize their dreams, - <http://news.amnesty.org/index/ENGEUR150032004> - looks at the situation of children with mental disabilities in the remote state institution in Dzhurkovo, high up in the mountains of southern Bulgaria.

The second feature, El Salvador/Guatemala: "¿Dónde están los niños?" (Where are the children?), - <http://news.amnesty.org/index/ENGAMR020012004> - features interviews with two young adults who were taken from their families during the conflicts in the two Central American countries. Many of these children have been reunited with their surviving families thanks to the work of a number of organizations like "¿Dónde están los niños?" (Where are the children?).
